

PULASKI POINTS.

A Reckless Ride Over a Railroad Trestle.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE. Remarkable Escape of a Child—Accident to a Brakeman—A Young Couple Married—New Jail—A Puzzling Question.

(Correspondence of the Dispatch.)

PULASKI, VA., December 6.—A strange ride is said to have been taken near here a few days ago. A reckless bicyclist rode his bicycle over Clark's trestle, on the North Carolina Division of the Norfolk and Western railroad, his wheel bounding from tie to tie at a high speed. This trestle is 400 feet long and 85 feet high.

What strange escapes sometimes occur! At this time bridge some months ago, as a careful engineer was about crossing over with his train, he was horrified at seeing a little child playing innocently on the track just ahead of him. He stopped his engine as soon as possible, but it was too late. The child had passed over the bridge before he could come to a stand. The engineer, pallid with fear, and horror, hastened back to gather up the mangled body of the dead child, when lo! and behold, the little thing tumbled from under the train, where it had fallen down between the ties, and rolled into the engineer's arms, untouched and unharmed by any danger.

Per contra, as the lawyers say, Oden Richardson, a colored brakeman on the Norfolk and Western railroad, at this town, was not so fortunate. A few days while coupling a freight-car, his right hand was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated. Drs. Chaffin and Peyton performed the operation, and, changing to a more congenial subject, your correspondent observed a happy pair at the depot the other morning. They were about to take the Crippis Creek train. The boy and girl seemed in their teens. They had just seen from home to home, and were on their way to the depot. The girl's father telegraphed that he had surrendered, and they could go home and be married once in the "Good City of the Mountains." They flew on the wings of love to their accommodation. The clerk, who quickly gave them a license, and then, after a few minutes of little Cupids' dancing around, upon the station of this one of Pulaski's preachers made them the aid and last, not the Cupids' own flesh, and they went on their way rejoicing. Surely "all's well that ends well."

IN THE AIR.

Matrimony is in the air hereabouts. Mr. Eaton, a leading farmer of Giles, has led to the altar Mrs. Ella Palmer, who for a number of years has resided in Pulaski. The couple will reside at Mr. Eaton's home.

Mr. T. D. Barnard and bride and Mr. Russell Dawson and bride have returned from their trip to Atlanta.

Judging from the number of persons taking the train here for Atlanta, the winter must be well advanced. Among some recent expositors I notice Dr. John Tipton and wife, Judge N. P. Oglesby and wife, and of Hillsville, James Pence, of Tazewell, and J. A. Whitlock, of Pulaski.

Mrs. M. M. Dodamand, of Richmond, Va., is visiting her son, C. H. Dodamand, an efficient railroad agent. His daughter, Miss Adelaide Dodamand, is visiting friends in Eastern Virginia.

We will miss this winter the genial smile of our handsome Mayor, John T. Loving, who will spend the season in Richmond, as committee clerk to the House of Delegates, a place he has filled for several seasons.

J. E. Moore is acting Mayor during the Mayor's absence.

Mrs. W. C. Kelly was stricken down with paralysis last week. Her life was despaired of at first, but she has improved a little, and hopes of her recovery are entertained. She is still extremely ill, however. One side is helpless and the other is affected.

THE NEW JAIL.

The new jail is nearly completed. It is a neat, three-story building, or, rather, a two-story building, with several basement rooms. It will be ready for a house-warming before Christmas. A house on the corner of the jail, for the use of the jailer, will doubtless be built soon; but it is an open question whether the town of Pulaski or the county shall build it. The town, under the court-house, under the jail, and under the jailer's house, is a fall or a jail is a fall without a jailer's house.

Miller and Warden are laying the foundation of the new court-house with great rocks, so that the structure shall not be built on sand, but on a firm foundation when the winds and floods come. The whole building will be of Peak-cream sandstone, and, though this change will add to the cost, it will add to the value and beauty of the building. The inside finish will be hard oak.

WILLIAMSBURG.

The Phi Beta Kappa—Handsomeness Entertained—Personal and Social Notes.

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., December 7.—(Special.)—The Phi Beta Kappa Society held its meeting in the college library Friday evening, and was well attended. This old society was founded here in 1776. Chief Justice John Marshall being one of its earliest members. It soon spread to New England, and for seventy-five years it has been a social and literary distinction to wear the association's symbols upon the watch-chain. It does not conflict with the numerous Greek-letter fraternities. The principal meeting comes off in June, during commencement, but at the meeting of the original charter of the college, and an orator and a poet will be chosen in a few days for this occasion. Great interest is manifested in the North at the revival of this, the mother chapter, at William and Mary.

Colonel William Lamb, the president of this chapter, was elected to the Senate of the State.

President and Mrs. Lyon G. Tyler, entertained very handsomely at the home on the college lawn, two Virginia comedians after the play, "Naval Engagements," which was given under the auspices of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

Those who took part were: Mr. C. W. Coleman; Mr. J. B. Cabell, of Richmond; Mr. R. C. L. Moncreux, of Fairfax; Mrs. John Spencer, Mrs. Lyon G. Tyler, and Miss Reginald Scott.

Mr. Gabriel G. Himmelfrucht, of Hollywood, York county, member of the Board of Supervisors from Burton District, left this evening for Atlanta, to be gone about ten days.

Mr. A. E. Smith has returned from a delightful visit to his old friend, Mr. Whitaker Lee, near Grove Station. Mr. Smith reports many beautiful things in that neighborhood, but he did not succeed himself in bringing down any.

Misses Florence Kilre, of Plainfield, N. Y., and Marie K. Valt, of Staten Island, N. Y., who have been here for some time in connection with the Jones will contest, left to-day for their homes.

Miss Burgess Johnson, daughter of Mr. J. P. Johnson, of near Keeton, has gone to Richmond, to visit her aunt, Mrs. Graham.

Miss Charlotte Evans, daughter of Commander Evans, of the battleship Indiana, is here, visiting Miss Rita Moncreux.

Miss Jessie Scott, of Richmond, is the guest of Mrs. Cynthia Coleman, of Nicholson avenue, and Miss Alice Mauld, of Prince William, is visiting the family of Rev. W. T. Roberts, at the Episcopal rectory.

Mrs. Minta Wall, of Hinton, W. Va., who has been visiting relatives here, left yesterday for Richmond, where she will remain a week before returning home.

Miss Sadie Charles, daughter of Professor John S. Charles, is in Richmond, visiting her cousin, Mrs. Marrow, on Church Hill.

Dr. Sheriff Walker Ware will leave on Monday to visit Atlanta.

Mrs. and Miss Cannon, of Norfolk, who have been spending some time here, will leave on Monday, and will return home to-morrow evening.

Captain E. V. White, of Portsmouth, will on the 12th instant deliver in Cameron Hall his now-famous lecture on the "Naval Contest between the Merrimac (Virginia) and the Monitor." Captain White was an officer on board the Merrimac, and is well qualified to speak on this interesting naval conflict. The lecture will be delivered for a charitable purpose, and, no doubt, the lecturer will have a large house.

BON AIR.

The Weather—The Currency Question—To Fight Fire.

BON AIR, VA., December 7.—(Special.)—Some one has been reporting weather from this place, which was said to be a little warmer than that elsewhere, but the reporter informs me that he only sent the actual state of his thermometer; that he did not make the weather, and that if it was hot it was none of his doing.

Some complaint was made in regard to the heat, but still our village was full of visitors all the season. The nights were delightful enough to compensate for the hot days, and thus there was an equalization all around. One popular attraction of this season, among the people we have English, German, United States people, Chateaufortians, and a few natives, but the latter are small yet on nature, not in number, and I mean, here, though some seem to think that they would like more silver. Why they do not ask for greenbacks I can't see. Some want more gold, but all that I want along that line is more of either, or of a mixture thereof. There are two parties here. All think alike on the political question, but one voter, and he looks by himself, as Lord Dunsany, or some other fellow of that stamp said.

TO FIGHT FIRE.

A few weeks since the people here were much excited over a fire, and all at once awoke to the idea that something more than an improvised "bucket brigade" was needed to ward off the danger of this "enemy." Therefore the place will be soon equipped with fire-extinguishers. The fire to which I have referred got a good start before it was discovered, but men and women soon got to work, and so the fire was kept from spreading to the place where it was first seen.

We are just over the coldest weather of the season, but I presume that the weather report will advise you of that. There was a light fall of snow, but, under favorable circumstances, it soon disappeared.

QUITE GAY.

The winter has been quite gay up here, so far. Several of the housewives here, some of their lady friends from other places staying with them. On Friday night the Society of "King's Daughters" had a very successful entertainment at the residence of Mr. J. Bates. One feature of it was that each member was to bring with her an amount equal in cents to the number of years she was old.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY.

No Red Oysters—Personal and Social Notes.

GLOUCESTER, VA., December 7.—(Special.)—No red oysters have yet been seen in our waters. Some oysters in York river are a little green, but this does them no harm. There is a tradition to the effect that when green-gill oysters were first taken to town they would not sell. It was soon discovered that the green oysters had been fattened and had some of them were artificially greened. The green used was poisonous, and the sale of green-gill oysters was absolutely prohibited.

It is probably surprise some of Richmond's connoisseurs to learn that a great many of the Lynhaven-Bay (?) oysters they consume come from York river.

Judge Tallaferro on Monday approved the action of the Board of Supervisors with reference to the new, fire-proof Clerk's office.

Hog-killing is the order of the day, and the hog-slaughterers are now living on the last of the land-pork.

Miss Carrie Minor, of Richmond, is visiting Mrs. James Catlett, at Timberlake.

F. B. Jones has returned home, after a protracted visit to her old home, in Arkansas.

Mr. A. J. Silverwood returned to Richmond to-day, after a week's stay with Mr. L. V. Magruder, at S. Chapman.

Mr. Walker Jones went to Richmond Tuesday, and returned here on Thursday.

WOODSTOCK.

A Church Dispute—Personal and Social Notes.

WOODSTOCK, VA., December 7.—(Special.)—A dispute has arisen in the Lutheran congregation, worshipping at St. David's church, in Powell's Fort, as to whether the church belongs to the Ohio or Tennessee Synod. The congregation will attempt to settle the dispute some time in January.

George W. Koons, County Treasurer, has advertised the delinquent tax-list for 1894, and sale will be held court-day—December 9, 1895.

The annual sermon to Ashby Lodge, I. O. O. F., of this place, will be preached at the Christian church, at this place, by Rev. J. Bauman, on Sunday night.

George W. Miley, Clerk of the Circuit Court, and L. S. Walker, of the County Court, have returned from Richmond, where they were attending the annual convention of the Virginia county clerks.

Colonel E. E. Stickley is in Staunton attending the meeting of the Executive Committee of which he is a member of the Western Hospital for the Insane.

Estimate Auditor Walker is in Staunton during the week, attending the meeting of the board of the Wesleyan Female Institute.

The Walker Documents.

PARIS, December 7.—The Journal des Debats says the French Government consents to communicate to the United States the contents of the documents in the case of John L. Walker, ex-United States Consul to Madagascar, now serving a term of imprisonment in France.

This action, the Journal says, is taken as a mark of courtesy to the United States. The paper denies that the latter government is entitled to demand the documents.

Soap-Factory Partially Burned.

CHICAGO, ILL., December 7.—A fire early this morning destroyed part of the extensive soap manufactory of James S. Kirk & Co. The loss is estimated by $120,000. The factory is divided into three buildings, and the central one, a four-story structure, caught fire. The principal loss—$100,000—was in machinery and the remainder on other contents and the building. The loss is covered by insurance.

STAUNTON IS BUSY.

The Christmas Trade and Hardy Mountaineers.

PREPARING FOR THE WINTER. Banner Christian Endeavor Society. The New Masonic Temple—Marriage Announcement—The Good-Roads Question.

STAUNTON, VA., December 7.—(Special.)—The streets of Staunton are abnormally alive these crisp early winter days. Already the merchants have their Christmas wares opened and on exhibition, and are vying with one another in handsome displays of goods. Certain it is that if times are hard the shelves are laden with shoppers, and the shelves are laden with more beautiful Christmas goods than ever before.

Many country people are coming to town bringing farm produce, and the wagon-yards are filled with big wagons laden with merchandise from Highland and Pendleton counties.

The sturdy mountaineers, some of them crossing mountain ranges after mountain ranges, coming forty and fifty miles to Staunton, bring in lots of game, poultry, nuts, fruits, and lumber, which they barter for groceries, clothing, and hardware to tide them over the long winter months, when the roads are impassable, and they must needs stay at home.

When the Chesapeake and Western railroad is built out beyond Bridgewater into Highland and Pendleton counties, it will lose some of this valuable trade.

The question of building a railroad from this city out through Highland and Pendleton is being agitated.

Miss Evelyn Young, of Louisville, is here spending a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. Edward Echols.

Mr. Donald Allen and family, of Galveston, Tex., are in the city, visiting Mrs. Allen's mother, Mrs. Columbus Hale. Mrs. Allen and her sister, Miss Kate Hale, have just returned from the Atlanta Exposition.

Mrs. Mary Tabb Walker left this week to spend several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Louisa A. Smith, at Springfield, Ill.

Mr. Caryl Bryan, of Baltimore, was in town during the week, having come on to the wedding of Miss Bayly and Mr. Severn Nottingham, which took place Wednesday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Staunton Second Presbyterian church, at the recent convention held in Roanoke, won the State banner, its reports in all lines being the best.

The work on the new Masonic Temple is rapidly nearing completion, and the interior finishing is now being done. This five-story structure, of Milwaukee buff brick, with stone trimmings, is easily the handsomest building in Staunton, and costs about $50,000.

The Odd-Fellow building on east Beverly street is making good progress, and the roof is now being put on.

City-Treasurer Arista Hoge has issued a call for the refunding of $75,000 of the city's municipal bonds; $25,000 of these are 6 per cent, and $50,000 are 8 per cent, and the city will pay the holders thereof January 1, 1896, at the city's disposal.

City-Council, on the motion of Councilman W. P. Tams, has suspended the ordinance against firing firecrackers Christmas, and the small boy is allowed his fun for twenty-four hours ending December 25th at 5 P. M. At this Council meeting C. L. Weller, who for several years past has most creditably sat as a city father, offered his resignation. His brother-councilmen refused to accept the resignation, and take the matter.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT. Carrie has been received in this city by her father, Samuel Barron, of Warsaw, Richmond county, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Imogen Wright Barron, to Mr. Victor Lyle Denney, of Staunton. The marriage will take place at noon, December 15th, at St. John's church, Warsaw.

Miss Barron is an exceedingly attractive young lady, and made many friends here on the occasion of her visit. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wright, of Staunton.

Mr. Denny is a prominent and popular young dry-goods merchant, and is junior partner in the firm of Denny Brothers.

Dr. Robert L. Cabell, of Richmond, spent several days here this week. Mr. William Frazier left this week to visit relatives at Elizabethtown, Ky.

Mr. Ashley R. Snyder, who for several years past has been in the employ of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, has accepted a position with headquarters in Richmond.

FARMVILLE.

Personal Notes and Briefs—Serious Accident.

FARMVILLE, VA., December 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mirtie Williamson left last Wednesday for Baltimore.

Miss Lillie Jones, of Lynchburg, and Mrs. Miss Lillie Salts Dunnington.

Mr. Richard H. Johnson, of Richmond, was in town several days this week. Miss Julia Chapman, of Mechanicsburg, was here on a visit this week to Mrs. S. H. Bollett.

Miss Essie Paulett returned yesterday from a very pleasant trip to Danville.

Miss Lulu Davis has gone to Richmond to join her mother and the rest of the family, who recently took up their residence there.

Mrs. Robert J. Carter, of Prospect, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gliss.

Mrs. Dr. Bagby left the other morning for a visit to relatives in King and Queen counties.

Mr. W. M. Baker left Wednesday on a visit to his mother, of Staunton.

Mr. W. H. Whigham spent several days in Richmond.

Mr. James Hardy and wife, of Mechanicsburg, after spending a week of their honeymoon in this place, returned to their home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Selden, of Richmond, have arrived here to attend the marriage of Mr. Selden's sister, Miss Sarah, which event is announced for next week.

Mr. William T. Johnson has issued cards for the marriage of his youngest daughter, Miss Julia, to Mr. Joseph Dupuy Eschigton, of Wytheville. The ceremony will occur on the 18th instant at 12 o'clock in the Presbyterian church of this place.

News has been received here of a very unfortunate and painful accident which recently befell Mr. Sterling Price, who is one of the most delightful of his kind ever given there. The pink-room, where the patronesses received the guests, was beautifully decorated with palms and blooming plants.

The prime movers in this organization are Colonel and Mrs. William Thompson, Governor and Mrs. Hugh S. Thompson, Mrs. Jefferson Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Wyles, Dr. and Mrs. Oliver Livingston Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Loyall Farragut, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Deshon, Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Pickrell, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wesley Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sydney Sullivan, Colonel John R. Abney, George Gordon Eddies, George H. Sullivan, E. Bancker Smedes, Heth Lorton, James L. Johnson, Henry
